Manufacturers Seek Injunction; Strikers Face Loss of Union Membership

The shoe situation in Lynn is tied up in a knot.

The 900 striking lasters today refused to come back, despite the fact that the shoe manufacturers offered a substantial increase.

The lasters were originally offered an increase of from 7 to 10 per cent. Today the manufacturers offered a further increase of from 10 to 25 per cent. The strikers refused to consider it.

By so doing they incurred the great displeasure of the parent organization, the Amalgamated Shoe Workers of America, and by their refusal to accept the terms they risked expulsion from the union.

The strikers are asking for an increase of from 30 to 50 per cent. The manufacturers say they cannot afford to make such a concession.

The Lynn Shoe Manufacturers' Association filed suit in the Supreme Court at Salem today, asking for an injunction to restrain the lasters who walked out from continuing their strike and to have the lasters declared in contempt for violation of a court injunction forbidding strikes in violation of an agreement between the manufacturers and the Amalgamated Shoe Workers.

The manufacturers in their suit set forth that unless relief is afforded by the court, "the entire shoe industry of Lynn will cease to operate" and that continuing the strike will cause a loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the manufacturers and to the community.

Another situation complicates the issue. If a substantial relief is given the lasters, the entire shoe industry in the shoe industry.

There are several thousand of these employed in Lynn, and if the employees meet the demands of the lasters, it may mean a general strike in the shoe industry.

CHINESE SMUGGLED HERE FROM CUBA

Wholesale smuggling of Chinese into the United States through this port was revealed today when it was learned eighty-seven were landed from a British schooner on Greater Boston Island in Boston harbor a week ago.

Remaining only half an hour, the aliens, said to have paid $1000 a head, were transported to the country, where they were taken to the shores of night in Lynn, Nahant and Boston, where they disappeared. The Federal authorities, however, learned of the alien landing, and started an investigation that thus far has not met with success.

KU KLUX OR WHAT? HE TOOK NO CHANCES AND CALLED COPS

James Brown, thirty, of Ernest street, Cliftonville, doesn't know whether it was a private Ku Klux matter or a lullaby.

Early this morning he was held up by two men at Morgan street and Lincoln avenue, Sausalito. The two men held a rope, and on Brown's yell for help, two policemen came running to the scene. The men with the rope ran off, and Brown proceeded on his way home.

Twenty minutes later, as he was approaching his home, he saw the same two men lurking in the bushes. Again he yelled for help. This time Patrolman Flaherty, whose beat is on Ernest street, came running to the street, just in time to see the two men dart away and disappear.

Brown had $200 in cash in his possession.

PREMIER POINCARÉ INSISTS THAT ENTENTE CONTINUE

PARIS, Aug. 28 (AP)—The impression drawn from Premier Poincaré's address at Chartres is that France does not desire to see an end of the Entente. He said: "As far as we are concerned, we should consider as criminal any act or word which would tend to disturb or weaken such union."

Turning to the question of British trade and the effect of the Ruhr occupation upon it, the Premier said British trade statistics showed an increase in the tonnage value of exports and imports during the first months of this year as compared with 1922.

The Ruhr occupation, M. Poincaré asserted, had hardly been termed evil, inasmuch as the Versailles treaty and collective allied declarations recognize the right of the Allies to occupy additional territory as security for restoration payments.

It is understood that the French reply to Lord Curzon's note will be sent to London tomorrow.

1,000-MILE RADIO ALARM AIDS SEARCH FOR KIDNAPED BABY

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP)—A widespread activity of police on the radio broadcast of 1,000 miles was sent out today in the police search for the three-month-old Lillian Helen McKenna, who was kidnaped from her baby carriage in West Eighteenth street.

Despite the general alarm and the radio broadcast, the mother, Mrs. Ellen McKenna, the mother, has not been located.

First Subject to Be Considered as Mafioso and Operators Get Together

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 28.—The opening conference of mafioso operators in an effort to reach an agreement upon which a new working agreement may be reached, was postponed until 2 o'clock this afternoon, when representatives of the United Mine Workers Union and the mafioso operators met here today.

Wages, it was announced, would be the first subject to be considered. The mafioso will not be granted a $3 a day increase. On that later, it was said, would be considered the question of a new working agreement.

Samuel D. Warner, chairman of the mafioso operators' committee, and the mafioso John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

The negotiations were resumed through the observation of the United States Coal Commission and will be conducted under a closer Federal scrutiny than heretofore, according to a report of the negotiations.

Very little progress had been made when the conference broke up last night and today they started on practically the same footing as when they formally presented.

Included in the demands of the mafioso is a 25 per cent increase in wages, full union recognition, and the abolition of the "company" system, which prevails in some branches of the industry and in some of the other disputed points.

Arbitration was refused by the mafioso representatives, who, at the previous conference also declined to remain at work after beginning in case of failure to reach an agreement on a new contract to that date.

The statement issued in New York by Daniel F. Nugent, attorney for Stokes, that fifty-seven co-respondents would be named in the restraining of the divorce suit in October, was not substantiated.

"I sued Weddie to show the world that his father's charge that I had been friendly with his son was untrue. I do not intend to demand that he be forced to take the witness stand to deny that he wrote the so-called confession of intimacy."

"I do not intend forcing him. I am surely old enough and should have honor enough to take the only honorable course.

"But few people give any credence to Brookhart's statements," Mr. Meredith declared, "and while the damage of his statements might be more, I estimate his effectiveness at about thirty cents, so I have instructed my attorneys to sue him."

"The public will now have an opportunity to see how nearly he came to proving even one of his many mouthings."

"It is futile to argue with a man who is so careless with his statements as Senator Brookhart," J. Meredith continued, recalling the senator's previous statements.

ETHEL LYNE GAS-OXYGEN REPLACING ETHER IN SURGERY

STARTLING RESULTS CLAIMED

Patient Recovers Faculties 3 Minutes After Inhalation of Gas Ceases

By GRACE DESCHAMPS
The dread of "taking ether" slips into the past.
The nauseating after effects—all the fear with which a patient approaches a major operation—will be no more.
A substitute for ether has been found.
The latest discovery in anesthetics, and what is considered to be the most important since the discovery of ether, has been given to the public by Dr. Anne H. Lockhardt and Dr. J. B. Carter, of the University of Chicago.

It has all the advantages of the lesser anesthetics with none of their disadvantages, and may be given to a patient for a period of from five minutes to one hour and fifty minutes.

PRaised BY SURGEONS.
The discovery is ethylene gas and oxygen. Chicago surgeons have used it in more than 200 cases and in only two instances was it unsuccessful. In these cases, the patients failed to become anesthetized, but the same patients reacted unfavorably to all other anesthetics.

In the presence of other anesthetics and narcotics, Lockhardt and Carter submitted to a personal test with the ethylene gas. The results coincided with the statements of patients and physicians, and bore out their own conclusions.

USE SPREADING.
The use of ethylene gas has been officially introduced in the Presbyterian Hospital in Chicago, and is spreading rapidly in private use by surgeons in the large cities.

While several anesthetics have been developed in recent years which have proved successful in minor operations and in obstetrics, nothing has been found to take the place of ether, the only expedient which could be counted upon for major operations of long duration.

In ethylene gas, Chicago surgeons believe they have an anesthetic that surpasses any in medical history—some without even the disadvantages of nitrous oxide, the latter having been considered the best for minor surgery.

Application, the anesthetist danger attending the use of other gases, cannot occur in the administration of ethylene gas as much as it is a 10 per cent oxygen may be used in major operations.

There is complete relaxation of the muscles which does not occur in the use of nitrous oxide and still the pulse stays steady.

The high blood pressure often present under other anesthetics does not take place. There is no rapid pulse. The pulse remains slow and steady.

There is no difficult or painful breathing as frequently under ether. The lungs are in no danger from ether.

Most striking of all results is the absence of after effects. A patient who has been under ethylene gas for nearly two hours recovers his entire faculties within five minutes after ceasing to inhale it. The length of recovery varies from one to three minutes, in rare instances extending to five minutes.

Nausea Overcome.
No nausea or vomiting occurs. Persons with respiratory infections were in no way affected by the ethylene gas.

The patient does not turn black, a healthy color being maintained throughout the entire administration.

Of 100 cases studied minutely, every patient was enthusiastic over the experience. Similar accounts are now being administered the gas in Chicago.

According to Dr. Lockhardt, the patient experiences not the slightest discomfort as "going under" ethylene gas. "Instead, there is a pleasant sense of well-being and comfort," says the surgeon. "The patient is conscious only of a pleasant sensation and has no slightest difficulty in breathing."

The discovery of ethylene gas adds greatly to the recent important contributions to medical science in the United States.

SIX FAMILIES FLEE FIRE IN ROXBURY

Six families were driven from their homes when the second floor of the Boston Ice Cream Co. at No. 42 Elmwood st., Roxbury. For a time the fire district seemed threatened. Damage to the factory, which is owned by H. P. Hood and Sons Company, was $3,000. The cause of the fire was not determined but it is believed that defective wiring may have been responsible.

Tenants of Nos. 47, 45, 43 Elmwood street in the block adjoining the factory fled when the flames threatened their homes.

The fire was discovered by Fred Blute, an employee, who sounded the alarm and then notified two other workmen. When District Chief Kenney arrived, he ordered a second alarm.

8 HUB GIRLS OVERCOME BY GAS IN TRUCK

Young women were overcome by carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust of the engine of the truck in which they were riding home from Marlboro' Grove, Whitman.

Those of them were unconscious and were taken to the Brockton Hospital for treatment. They gave their names when they recovered as: Miss Elizabeth Kennedy of No. 1210 Lancaster avenue; Miss Arlene Tobin of No. 1977 Dorchester avenue; and Miss Laura Kent of No. 1345A Dorchester avenue. The other five did not need treatment.

The accident happened when the truck started for home. A shower of rain came up and a canvas cover was spread over the truck, thus trapping the gas.

DRAG FOR NINE LOST IN THE MISSISSIPPI

St. Paul, Aug. 20 (AP).—An available police at South St. Paul, associated by scores of civilians, today dragged the Mississippi River for bodies of nine of the ten persons drowned when their launch sank in the Mississippi River last night.

An attempt also was made to locate the ill-fated thirty-foot craft to learn definitely what caused it to go under. Those who perished were Mrs. Pauline Martinelli, her three sons and daughter-in-law, two grand-children, Miss Margaret Mahn, thirteen, sister of Mrs. Andrew Martinelli, and Frank and Robert Gaultier. The body of Miss Pauline Martinelli was the only one recovered.

WOMAN'S LIFE IS SAVED BY TOURNIQUET

Mrs. Catherine Harrington, sixty years old, of No. 35 Rock avenue, Lynn, was saved from bleeding to death from a severed artery in her wrist by persons who rushed from the Unitarian Church and applied a tourniquet.

The woman was hurried through the windshield of the auto owned and driven by her son, Edward Harrington, when the steering gear in the car broke and the auto ran into a tree near the church.

When members of the church, who heard the crash, reached the wrecked car they found Mrs. Harrington unconscious, blood pouring from the wound in the wrist. A handkerchief and a piece of stick served as a tourniquet and she was rushed to the Lynn Hospital in an auto owned by Charles Perkins of Lynn. Her condition is comfortable.

The son was lifted through the top of the auto. He suffered several bad cuts, none of which are considered serious.

6-CENT GASOLINE PROCESS BACKED BY FORD, INVENTOR SAYS

PLANS TO MARKET PRODUCT

Cheaper Flivvers Seen by New Method of Distilling Coke

New York, Aug. 19.—Six-cent gasoline, cheaper lubricating oil, gas at sixty cents a thousand feet and coke briquettes at $4.60 the ton—all of these are claimed as practicable by a new method of distillation of coal which the inventor announces is being financed by Henry Ford.

And as a consequential possibility is a cut in the price of power. The inventor is Bill Piron and V. Z. Caracristi, who state they have just completed successful experiments in a laboratory in West Virginia under the patronage of Mr. Ford.

TO BUILD PLANT.

Each ton of coal used by Ford under the process will produce coke with which he can make his own steel instead of buying it as at present—motor gasoline, lubricating oil, fertilizer, cements, gas and grease, Piron said.

The next step is construction of buildings at the Ford plants in both the United States and Canada, where the clearest grade of coal will be used.

It is estimated that the cost of making coke will be so naturally reduced that it will be possible for Ford to make further price reductions if he so desires.

Ford is understood to be figuring on using coal from his own mines in West Virginia, transporting it to his plants over his own railway lines.

REDUCES COSTS

One of the principal savings, if the process works out in actual practice, will be in steel. By making his own coke, Ford expects to be able to erect his own steel mills and thus obtain steel at rock-bottom prices.

Coke has been produced from coal for many years, and there have been repeated efforts to obtain additional by-products, but with indifferent success.

Under the Piron-Caracristi method, the coal will be distilled at much lower temperatures than heretofore. Under heat, coal gives off various gases. These gases, when cooled, may be condensed into liquids. This, in brief, is the nature of the process.

FIREBUG SETS 2 BLAZES IN MEDFORD

Fire destroyed a mansion and a cottage in Medford.

Shortly after midnight a blaze destroyed the Klidter estate at No. 248 Forest street, owned by the McBrack Land Company. The estate has been unoccupied for some time.

Pine officials express the opinion that the fire was incendiary, and an investigation is being made. Damage is estimated at $1,500. A cottage owned by Mrs. Smith at No. 15 Burden street was also destroyed. The damage was $2,500. The cause is unknown.

COP'S NOSE NEARLY CUT OFF BY BLOW

Theodore Porter, twenty-nine years old, of No. 44 Ring avenue, North Cambridge, the police say, struck Metropolitan Archibald Turner at the Metropolitan Police station as the nose with a bottle in such manner as to almost sever it from his face. The alleged assault happened at Revere Beach after Porter had an argument over the price of a hot dog.

STEPFATHER'S SHOT KILLS CHILD IN ARMS

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 19.—Two-year-old William Purkett, Jr., died in his mother's arms, innocent victim of a family fight, when a bullet fired at his father by the latter's stepfather missed the mark and struck the child. Charles Patterson, 41, was arrested and charged with murder.

GALLANTRY OF FUGITIVE LED TO CAPTURE

The devoted attention he paid a woman led to the arrest of Alexander Hensley, who was due to arrive at Boston police headquarters late today from Montreal by face change of the larceny of $7,500 from Abraham Feinberg of the National Milk Supply Company.

When Hensley started away he was accompanied by an attractive woman who had several trunks and several suitcases.

His sedulous endeavor to have her every wish gratified and his chaste behavior, manner, attracted the attention of several taxi drivers who watched the couple board a Montreal express.

Paraphrased with this information, Inspector Timothy Donovan went to the Canadian city and searched the hotels until he found Hensley.

QUINCY CHILD HIT BY WILD RIFLE SHOT

Louise Mitchell, seven years old, of No. 112 Palmer street, Quincy, in the Germantown district, was struck on the left hand by a .22 caliber rifle bullet, which was fired at a target by Daniel Matlock, twenty-one, of No. 418 Sea street, in the North End, between Palmer and Sea streets. A doctor removed the bullet. Matlock turned his rifle over to the police and was released.

WIDOW READY GIRL ACCUSES TO PROSECUTE STUDENT OF BROKER LARCENY

William A. Prescott, "business man," can do anything he likes but Mrs. Bertha Stohlgren will never marry him, despite the fact that she visited him in the Clinton Street jail last Saturday. This was the statement made today by the Rochester widow, who caused Prescott's arrest on a charge of larceny of $14,000 worth of stocks and bonds from her.

For a time, Mrs. Stohlgren is said, she had been tempted to yield to the entreaties of a friend of Prescott that she withdraw her charges against him. A short conference with her lawyer, she said, convinced her that Prescott should be prosecuted.

"If Prescott thinks that I am in love with him or that I will do anything for him, he is mistaken," the widow declared. "I am through with him for good."

A representative of a broker's office, a friend of Prescott, talked to me and almost had me convinced that I had made a mistake when I had turned Prescott over to the police. After I called my lawyer I didn't take me long to make up my mind."

fresh California Bartlett pears

As You Buy Them

Fresh Pear Cocktail

Allow one-half California Bartlett Pear for each serving. Cut pear into small cubes or balls with a French vegetable cutter. Add about 3 sections of orange fruit, from which all membrane has been removed and cut into small pieces. Pour 2 tablespoons of sweet orange juice over the fruit and mash with a muddling-churner. Be sure to serve this cocktail very cold.

Fresh Pear Salad

Take 2 cups of sliced California Bartlett Pears, 1 orange, separated into sections; 2 tablespoons chopped almonds, 2 sections of orange juice, 1 section of lemon juice, 1 section of vinegar, 1 section of oil, 1 section of salt. Arrange pears on lettuce hearts in salad dish (individual or large), orange sections forming a circle around them. Sprinkle chopped nuts over pears, pour over a French fruit salad dressing, or place a spoonful of mayonnaise on top.

When fresh California Bartlett Pears are offered at the market, use them in California Fruit Pears with the above recipes and obtain excellent results.

A panel will bring you one new California Pear Recipe Book. Address California Fruit Growers Association, 216 Pine Street, San Francisco, California.

Eat them any way you want. They are delightful. In fact, no other fruit can even begin to compare with fresh California Bartlett Pears in flavor, texture, or deliciousness.

They are being sold everywhere.

They cost so little that you need not stint yourself.

GLADYS LESLIE IN NEW FILM OF HOUDINI

GLADYS LESLIE will appear as the principal actress in the new picture, "Houdini," which is being released by the Famous Players-Lasker Corp. The picture is a sequel to the first "Houdini" picture, "The Houdini Mystery," which was released last year. Gladys Leslie has signed a contract for a return engagement of six months on the Famous Players-Lasker circuit, beginning next week in the Middle West.

FOLLOWING the sensational success of her latest picture, "The Old New York," which already has won New York, Marion Davies has started work on her next picture, "The Houdini Mystery." She has been taking her usual quarters in Stamford Conn. at Abbot Rock Farm, which is being used as a background for a picture now showing a will contest of the fifteenth century. All the work has been done at night, but she has been illustrating the scenes.

SHANNON DAY has suddenly stepped into the same class as the Queen of England and other Irish ladies of various lands, whose addresses are hardly necessary in the prompt delivery of mail. A film fan who lives in London wrote Mrs. Day a letter and addressed it "Mrs. Shannon Day, E. S. A." and it reached her without any unnecessary delay at Ardara, where she was doing some exterior work for "The Houdini Mystery."

CONSTANCE BENNETT has a number of notables in her acting career in her first picture under the C. O. Barry banner, "The Houdini Mystery." Among the notables are: William C. Bray, president of the trustees and chairman of the executive committee of the Newton Hospital, in which she plays a woman whose illness at her home, No. 31 Huntington Avenue, Newton Centre, has been the subject of a feature in the Boston Herald, and in the first picture, "The Houdini Mystery," in which she plays a woman whose illness at her home, No. 31 Huntington Avenue, Newton Centre, has been the subject of a feature in the Boston Herald.

Younger Set Active in Yachting Life at Resorts Along the North Shore

By BETTY ALDEN

HERE'S an informal picture of Rear Commodore James Cunningham Gray, Jr. of the Eastern Yacht Club's Junior Club. Young Mr. Gray—he's more familiarly known as just plain "Bunkie"—lives during the summer months at Marblehead Neck, and we consider him an important addition to our "Who's Who Along the North Shore."

As a matter of fact, the younger set along the North Shore is very busy and interested in the gentle art of sailing and yachting on its waters. Which includes not only Boston's future financiers, but their feminine associates as well.

Take, for instance, the officers of the Junior Eastern Yacht Club. John Gardner, Jr., is commodore; Robert Leeson, vicecommodore; "Bunkie" Gray, as we have said, holds the rank of rear commodore; Charles Robinson is the treasurer, and Miss Priscilla Rothwell is secretary. Chairman of the house committee is Miss Constance Percival, which isn't a trifling office at all.

Every Saturday the youngsters race their boats, a weekly event which never fails to draw a gay throng of companions and the papa and mamma to the North. In fact, right around Marblehead, sailing is the most important sport. I believe that the Junior Club of the Eastern Yacht Club was the first of its kind in this country.

Under-Secretary of State and Mrs. WILLIAM PHILLIPS (Caroline Drayton) was as guest at the Beverly Summer home Mrs. L. S. Cutting. The latter came up from Oakdale, Long Island, where she has been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. William Bayard Cutting.

MRS. RUSSELL BURRAGE and her sister, Mrs. Evelyn Toulmin, accompanied Mr. Burrage to Alexandria Bay, N. Y., where he played with the Myopia men in the polo tournament. Mrs. Toulmin has only recently returned to these shores from a visit to Europe.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH F. WOODS of New York have visiting them this month their daughter, Mrs. Norman R. Sturges, and her husband, who are coming from their home in Albany.

RETURNING recently from a trip to Europe, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund G. Bradley and his wife, Mrs. Bradley, are now in the city. They are both members of the Yacht Club.

MR. AND MRS. SAMUEL G. KING have with them at "Rosedale," their summer home, their son, Mr. Samuel G. King, Jr., and his wife, Mrs. King, who are both members of the Yacht Club.

The garden at "Rosedale" is one of the loveliest in the North Shore, with its lawns and flower beds. The garden is one of the loveliest in the North Shore, with its lawns and flower beds.

MAKES PEGGY JOYCE'S EX-FIANCE FROM BEATING

TELLER SET ON BY 'APACHES'

Young Vanderbilt, His Rescuer, Carried by Administering French Women

By C. F. BERTALLI
Universal Wireless
Paris, Aug. 20.—There is something radically wrong with American tourists this year.

Deauville is positively reaping at them, or rather of the few of them who are gracing the immense Normandy beach by their presence this season.

Have they become poor, or are they wise?

That is the puzzling problem with which the international crowd of pleasure seekers while away the hours which a year ago they spent more profitably collecting an immense quantity of dollars from trans-Atlantic visitors near to learn the mysteries of bacarat.

BIG WINNINGS A DECEIT.

The Greco-Armenian syndicate which since the armistice has won everything the Americans risked at the green tables, positively unable to find rich punters this week, resorted to the press agent story that their notorious bank had been broken by the persistent streak of bad luck. The story was broken, but the Americans abroad, who decried in the hope that it would draw the "Munichers Abroad" to the Deauville Casino.

But from the latest report the innocent abroad are still giving a wide berth to the smelly bacarat tables operated under the auspices of the Corniche-Lettellier-King Alphonse Company.

The company, however, are finding plenty to talk about in the latest mystery about Henry Letellier, former fiancé of Peggy Joyce. It is reported that while Letellier was on his way Wednesday to witness a new, high speed competition he was assaulted by a "band of Apaches" and was rescued only just in time to save him from serious injury by the vigorous intervention of Erika Wynne, son of the former Helen Vanderbilt, whose pugilistic ability soon disposed of five aggressors.

ALARMED HERO.

Arriving at the Casino the same night, a group of admiring women actually carried him in triumph, shoulder high, around the crowded dining room.

But arms are the rule morning, noon and night now, but the lower limbs must be covered to within four inches above the knee, according to the latest decree of French police.

Accordingly, broadened bath gowns have become the fashion within a day, while wigs, instead of caps with bath gowns, are the rage.

ONE DROWNS AS BOAT SINKS; 3 ESCAPE

Beverly, Aug. 20.—John A. Peterson, thirty-two years old, of Melville, N. Y., was drowned near Beverly Island, off Beverly Beach, when he tried to make shore in a leaky tender, after anchoring his launch to a buoy.

Together with Chester Martin, No. 43 Bridge street, Salem, William Carlson, No. 213 Eighth street, Woonsocket, R. I., and John A. Carlson, No. 72 Ninth street, Woonsocket, R. I., he had been cruising about the island in his power boat.

All four men were strong swimmers. It is believed Peterson was seized with cramps. He did not reach the launch with the others. The body has not been recovered.

TAXI DRIVER FOILS HOLDUP BY PATRON

Newport, Vt., Aug. 20.—David Davis, a Newport taxi driver, was blackjacked by a passenger on a lonely road, who tried in the darkness after being balked in his desire to make away with the car. Davis was accosted by the man in Gower street, after the motor was engaged to carry him to Pine Hill, a distance of two or three miles.

SHIP REPORTED LOST IN TYPHOON IS SAFE

Manila, Aug. 20 (A.P.).—The British steamer King George, reported sunk in Hong Kong harbor during the typhoon arrived here safely today after a tumultuous voyage. Her officers reported the vessel seen to sink in Hong Kong probably was the British steamship Moon Song.

PONZI EX-SECRETARY ENGAGED TO WED

MISS LUCY MELI

Former secretary to Charles Ponzi is to be married to John Christoforo, a division chief of the Internal Revenue Department.

Miss Lucy Meli, former secretary to Charles Ponzi, of get-rich-quick fame, and John Christoforo, division chief of the Internal Revenue Department, are engaged to wed. Announcements have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Gastone Meli of No. 27 Temple street, Revere, the girl's parents.

Miss Meli, who is twenty-one years old, was a prominent witness in the Ponzi trial. Ponzi is now in the Plymouth jail serving a five-year sentence.

Mr. Christoforo is twenty-eight years old and lives at No. 221 Revere street, Revere.

WARNS GERMAN REDS OF 'BLOOD AND IRON'

Berlin, Aug. 20 (I.N.R.).—"Any attempt by extremists—either Monarchists or Communists—against law and order and against the Republic government, will be put down ruthlessly, if necessary, with a policy of "blood and iron," William Holtmann, new Minister of Interior, declared today in an exclusive interview with International Service.

"Those who would like to establish a monarchy or a dictatorship, or a dictatorship to monarchy, as well as those who wish to establish a Soviet State will burn their fingers badly if they try to translate their wish into action."

In keeping with the attitude of all the other ministerial utterances since Stresemann assumed power, Holtmann refrained from violent denunciation of the French such as that during the regime of Herr Cuno.

"The Cabinet will safeguard all sovereign rights of the German people, but does not free from any nationalistic tendencies," Holtmann said.

"The Cabinet still endorses passive resistance by the Rhine and Ruhr population, but all attempts at criminal sabotage, or other acts of violence against the occupying troops will be combated vigorously as lies within the Government's power."

SAVE BOSTON MEN

Adrift 3 DAYS
Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 20.—Adrift in heavy seas for three days and nights in a 30-foot disabled motorboat and exhausted from loss of sleep, food and water, three fishermen were rescued by coast guards from the Isles of Shoals, who saw an improvised distress signal flaring from a small mast of the boat.

The men were Andrew Veley of No. 140 Flushing street, Everett; Joseph L. Ensey of No. 140 Boylston street, Melrose; and Domenico Bar of No. 338 Commercial street, Boston.

HAPPY FEET!

Sypho-Nathol is a wonderful aid in keeping tender, sensitive feet happy. One or two applications in a basin of warm water will afford prompt relief when your feet are tired and aching from any cause.

In the bath, too, Sypho-Nathol helps clear up the feet and gives a feeling of increased vigor and well-being. It is the best foot cream.

FIVE ARRESTED IN HOLOUP OF ROADHOUSE

Detroit, Aug. 20.—A man giving his name as Herman Kukulowsky of Brooklyn, N. Y., is under arrest at Monroe, Mich., and four men whose names are withheld are in custody here as the result of a spectacular holdup of the Alameda Inn, a notorious roadhouse just outside Detroit, and the killing of Oscar Bohn, motorcycle policeman at Monroe, Sunday morning.

Police believe the same band of seven gunmen who entered the roadhouse at 3 o'clock Sunday morning and staged a "wildwest" hold-up of 150 guests and a score of employees, five hours later shot and killed the motorcycle policeman at Monroe, when he attempted to stop a touring car speeding through the city.

Patrons of the roadhouse were drinking, eating and smoking when five gunmen entered two by two from the side door, and three from the front. Either by coincidence or prearrangement, the persons on the dance floor were engaged in watching a verbal

Believe It or Not, Flivver at Last Climbs Tree

Vineyard Haven, Aug. 20.—At last! The feat which motorists have sought for years to accomplish has been performed—that of climbing a tree.

A car of the "flivver" type struck an oak tree on the State highway, West Tisbury, bent it to an angle of 45 degrees, and landed on the top of another tree from which it fell to the ground, Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Richards, who were in the car, were spilled out before the feat was accomplished. Police would not credit their story until shown the evidence.

MILLION ICE CREAM CONES DESTROYED

More than 1,000,000 ice cream cones, condemned by Boston health officials as unfit for food, acted by the authorities were destroyed today.

Prosecution of persons responsible for the attempted sale of these cones will be started by United States officials at once, it was announced.

More than half of the seized cones, the authorities say, are five years old and were condemned here two years ago. At that time, it is alleged, the cones were shipped to Maine and later returned to Boston.

They were seized by health officials under Deputy Commissioner Muldowney shortly after the shipment arrived here, to be used, it is said, in connection with "slush," an food drink sold in the North End.

The remainder of the seized quantity, the authorities say, came here from New Jersey. They were re-iced and unfit for food, it is charged.

"Slush" realized on West & Company, a dealer in various food items, on shipping cones and milk, returned from 1,000,000 cones and powder—added.

YOUR BEAUTY

A SCIENCE OF PRACTICAL VALUE

A LOVELY face is a priceless gift. But it is not enough to have beautiful features and a healthy body as well. And there is no reason why we should not have both. For the path to both lies through perfect mental and physical health.

Of course, you may be much taller or much shorter and still have perfect proportions. Symmetry is the key to beauty.

Your height should be six times the length of your foot.

Your face, from the middle of your hairline to the point of your chin, should be four times your entire height.

From the middle of the top of your middle-finger to the end of your middle-finger should be the same length as your face.

When you stand with your arms extended horizontally, your body should be the same length as your arms. Your middle-finger should be just the same height as the distance across your body from the middle-finger to the other.

Exercise is a tremendous factor in attaining symmetry. Here is an exercise that brings almost perfect balance to your body. It plays, and especially tends to reduce the size of the abdomen.

Stand with your feet apart, the tips of your feet, arms straight out to the sides, and your hands turned forward, your elbows touching.

With a slow, sweeping motion, swing your arms and the tips of your fingers reach the floor, your hands touching.

Swing your arms back, your feet as tight as the finger points, thrust your arms forward, your hands touching.

Swing your arms back, your knees as close as you can. In this way, you should describe a semi-circle.

Bridgeport took both ends of a double-header and defeated Bridgeport, 3 to 2, in the first game which went eighteen innings, the longest on record in the Eastern League this season and 6 to 1, in the second game which was called in the seventh on account of darkness.

Littrell went the full eight innings in the first game for Bridgeport while the visitors used three fingers.

Post's ball throw with Deane on second gave Hartford its winning run in the eighteenth.

Empire Realty was struck by a fan after the second game.

1. The first step is to identify the main components of the system. This includes the hardware (CPU, memory, storage) and software (operating system, applications).

2. The second step is to analyze the system's performance. This involves monitoring key metrics such as CPU usage, memory usage, and disk I/O.

3. The third step is to identify any bottlenecks or areas of improvement. This can be done by comparing current performance against baseline values or industry benchmarks.

4. The fourth step is to implement optimizations. This may involve upgrading hardware, adjusting system settings, or rewriting code to improve efficiency.

5. The fifth step is to test the optimized system. This ensures that the changes have not introduced any new issues and that the system is performing as expected.

6. The sixth step is to document the results. This includes creating a report that details the findings, the optimizations implemented, and the resulting performance improvements.

7. The seventh step is to schedule regular maintenance. This helps to ensure that the system remains optimized and free of any potential issues.

8. The eighth step is to provide training for users. This ensures that they are aware of the system's capabilities and how to use it effectively.

9. The ninth step is to monitor the system's performance over time. This allows for the identification of any new issues or areas for improvement.

10. The tenth step is to update the system as needed. This includes installing updates for the operating system, applications, and hardware.

ADDING 1 STAGE TO REINARTZ RECEIVER

Although a standard audio-frequency amplifier added to a Radio receiver will frequently function next, the addition of a small choke coil will improve reception astonishingly.

This choke coil will smooth out the ripples and the "hump" frequency cut off any radio frequency current that does not belong there. It will not make signals louder, but will consequently make them clearer. It is necessary only for the first stage, and is not necessary on the second stage.

This coil has necessarily a large number of wire turns, and is

Although an amplifier may already detect radio signals, it will not be able to hear them unless a coil (L in diagram, in series with the A.T. tube) is added. The coils are wound side by side in 10 turns.

JEROME IN 12-ROUNDER

Clack baptistwrights are heading the bill at the Queensboro Stadium at Long Island City tomorrow night when Frankie Jerome, the "Bronx Bomber," and "Itch" Johnny Curtin, of Jersey City, Chicago won in the eighth inning when Hoyt weakened. The White Sox, however, had had a lead of 10-5, but a home run by the visiting team's catcher, Bill Baker, gave them three runs.

Barrett drove in the tying run and scored the winning marker himself in the ninth.

The play on Barrett was so close that Hoyt rushed to first base, threatening to let him and was brushed from the plate.

core. Frequently a coil from an old motor can be used. The wire should not be too fine, and the insulation should not be too thick. The wire may also be run by running 150 turns of No. 40 wire on a three-inch diameter core. The wire should be either enamel- or silk covered. The wire should be run in a small quantity; will be needed in spite of the number of turns.

The wire should be applied by fitting the core in a hand drill and turning the handle of the drill. The wire should be applied so that turning the handle revolves the core. The wire should be run very rapidly holding the wire in one hand and feeding it to the core with the other. The wire should be applied in the direction of the fiber.

The rest of the design should be in the standard flywheel shape.

20 GIRLS PASS EXAMINATION FOR BAR

Twenty Boston and six State girls were today being congratulated by the bar association for passing the recent bar examination.

Executives of the law schools reported that the results of the examination taken this year were the poorest on record. It is estimated that more than 700 students entered. Only 125 passed. Sixteen of the girls were graduates of the Portia Law School.

Miss Dora Dukeshire of No. 470 East Third street, South Boston, who passed, is now engaged in clerical work for the Portia Law School.

How the Trap Set for Rich Americans Caught the "Wickedest Woman in Paris"

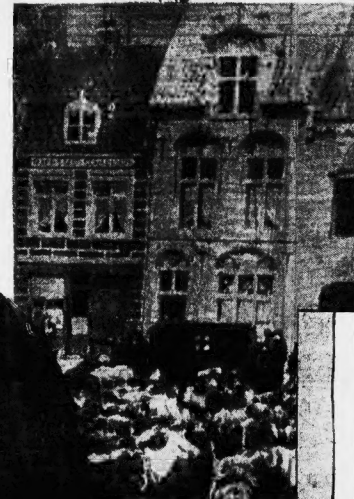

Pretty Marie Lefevre, Said to Have Been "Decoy Girl" for Mme. Lacoste Until She Was Mysteriously Murdered.

In Her Own Perfumed Net the French Gendarmes Snared the Scheming, Battling, Stabbing Beauty

"With savage dogs and stabbing dagger the 'Tigress of La Chapelle' proved to the startled, struggling gendarmes she was 'tigress' in fact as well as in name."

Marie Jeanne Lacoste, "Wickedest Woman in Paris," Photographed as She Was Taken to St. Lazare Prison in Custody of a Gendarme.

PARIS
TWO gendarmes crouched behind a brick wall separating the slums on the left bank of the Seine from the back garden of a real little house that seemed oddly out of place in a neighborhood so unkempt and sinister. It was dark and raining hard, but the police officers clung to their post, their eyes fixed on the blank, unblinking windows of the house.

Suddenly the shade of one of these went up and down quickly—twice. A prong of light appeared and disappeared, as though quenched by the driving rain. The two gendarmes leaped—as one—over the wall and across the garden, their pistols at the point. An instant later the night echoed with the "crash, crash" of sturdy shoulders splintering a door.

The first gendarme broke into a blaze of brightness. A stumble saved him from the fangs of a huge dog that lunged for his throat. Man and beast went down in a whirl of snarls, oaths, snapping jaws and a pistol-butt clinking at the animal's head. The second gendarme hurled the struggling pair.

"Bendez vous!" he shouted, waving his weapon.

But the woman midway of the room was far from surrendering. She met him with the fury of a mad Melusa, her white teeth twisted into a snarl as savage as her dog's, her black hair whipped back from her forehead, silk ripping as she sprang, unleashing a second dog with one hand, and with the other striking again and again with a steel dagger.

Battle raged back and forth across the room. A third man, who had been prone on a couch when the gendarmes smashed in the door, joined his desperate efforts to theirs. A second woman crouched in terror in a corner.

At last, battered but victorious, the three men dropped groggily on couch and chairs. The room was a shambles. The two dogs, mighty animals of the German shepherd breed (commonly called police dogs), sprawled where a bullet brought death to one and the pistol-butt a knockout for the other. The second woman still moaned hysterically in her corner. And the first, disheveled, wild-eyed, in tatters of silk, her wrists imprisoned in steel cuffs, glared at her captors and cursed them over and over again.

So they caught the "Tigress of La Chapelle"—snared in her own trap—brought to bay with the very bait she had used to hook others—and ended the most amazing systematic conspiracy for the plucking of wealthy American tourists that Europe has known.

The real name of the "Tigress of La Chapelle," the police say, is Marie Jeanne Lacoste, but to the world of the boulevards and bohemias she has been known for years only as "Mme. Pourpre," or "Mme. Purple," this because of her hair for violet, lilac, heliotrope—any flower of purple hue or variation.

Though madame was a mystery, no suspicion was attached to her until, some months ago, a gendarme patrolling the and revealed to officers in a tumbled heap on the cushions the body of a man. Though his dinner coat and white shirt had been slit to ribbons and a purple welt scarred his temple, he still breathed.

The taxi driver said that shortly after midnight he was halted in front of a Montmartre resort by two women and a man. He was directed to drive to the left bank of the Seine. Soon after he wheeled into the Boule Miché, there came a knock at the window. He stopped, and the two women alighted. One of them told him to take his remaining fare to the Ritz Hotel. The other woman, he noticed, was crying. This fact aroused his suspicions, so, after driving a few blocks, he stopped again and opened the door.

The police refused to reveal the name of the injured man, though after he became convalescent at the Hospital Bichat they gave out part of his story.

"He is an American, and he is rich. On the night of the attack, he says, he was alone in Paris, restless for amusement. At dinner in a cafe near the Opera he flirted with a pretty girl at a neighboring table. When he found her and suggested an evening in Montmartre she told him she would have to get her aunt as chaperone. He demurred, but she insisted. So at the Cafe of the Dead Man's Thumb (a Montmartre resort) they were joined by an older woman. He was charmed by her and the young girl, and he accepted enthusiastically to the former's invitation to go home with them for a late supper. That is the last thing he remembers, except a shooting pain in his side as they drove along in the taxi. Oh, yes!—Our American friend had 40,000 francs in his pocket. They are gone."

Where the police were reticent in their story was in the description given them by the American of the older woman. He told them, it is now revealed, that she was long afterward, when a pretty girl in a boulevard cafe looked up from her menu to meet the smiling gaze of a corpulent gentleman in evening clothes of an obviously American cut. She dropped her eyes, lifted them again, smiled in her own turn. The man rose, approached the girl's table, and, in awkward French, asked her to dine with him. He was an American tourist and "tress so laire."

This is the "tourist's" story. The girl accepted. They chatted pleasantly until he suggested visiting other cafes. She hesitated. No, it would be impossible. She lived with her aunt, whom she must meet in half an hour. However, her aunt's address was very fully. Perhaps, if she introduced her new friend.

The "tourist" fell in with the hint readily. An introduction; another cafe; dancing; wine; midnight; an invitation to supper; a taxi ride in which the "tourist" insisted on sitting across from the two women; unknown to the latter, a second taxi trailing them two blocks to the rear; the Boule Miché; a turn, and then another; the next little house; a glass of wine is offered to the guest; he pretends to drink it as he turns his back and spills it into a flowerpot; he stumbles against the window-ledge so that it goes up and down twice, then totters across the couch, apparently unconscious.

And that is the last chapter of the amazing story of how the Paris police, with one of their own number in the guise of an American, sprang her own trap on the "Tigress of La Chapelle"—the last chapter except for the exciting climax when "Mme. Pourpre," with savage dogs and stabbing dagger, proved that she was "tigress" in fact as well as in name.

dark and handsome, and among other terms, were at her waist a corsage bouquet of lilac-colored roses. It was the clue, coupled to the fact that the American was attacked within a few blocks of the cul de sac where Marie Lefevre was found, that gave the officers a working theory. They determined to fight fire with fire. There came a night, not

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

FOR years it has been the custom when calling on a young lady to take her a box of candy or a bunch of flowers, but we never stop to think that maybe she'd rather have a loaf of bread or a dozen of eggs.

A can of sardines aren't as beautiful as a bouquet of roses but they are more substantial.

NO dame can appreciate a bunch of flowers when she's starving to death.

YOU can buy her a gal of roast and have the butcher wrap it up in tissue paper so that it will look like little of the valley.

WE can wire candy and flowers so why shouldn't we be able to telephone meat and potatoes.

ANY butcher would be glad to put your card in a pound of spare ribs or a half dozen real cutlets.

A very appropriate thing to send your sweetheart would be a couple of hearts.

BUT how are you going to get a reliable market, otherwise they apt to make a mistake and send pigs feet.

IF you can't afford meat, send her some nice onions or garlic and she'll think of you with her breath.

SO will everybody else around her.

IT'S the same way in entertaining a girl. You spend five or six dollars for theatre tickets and maybe she'd rather have the money to pay her gas bill.

IT'S better to say to her: "Would you rather go to the opera, dear, or have your shoes fixed?"

MAYBE instead of going to a cabaret she'd prefer to get her father's watch out of lock.

YOU take her in and buy her an ice cream soda when maybe it would give her more pleasure to have a shampoo or manicure.

MANY a dame would much rather go home in the street car instead of a taxi if you'd give her the difference in cash.

BUT a lot of girls are beautiful and don't like to ask you for money.

IF YOU don't like to offer her flowers or food then give her books and photographs, movies or something that she can sell the next day.

SO WHEN you call on your girl to RAIN! Instead of the street car box of candy, surprise her with this month's rent or the interest on the mortgage.

A lady sitting beside me in a crowded trolley car "side seat" had a long black hair hanging over a high collar that annoyed me greatly.

Being a stranger, I didn't care to tell or even let her know it was there, so watched my chance for her to turn her head. Imagine my surprise and embarrassment as I pulled to have her scream in pain and horror for it was on a "mole." And the whole incident was embarrassing in laughter.
